CHURCHES BEGIN OBSERVANCE OF HOLIDAY SEASON

Methodist Cantata Starts Week Of Festivities In Circleville

VESPER RITES ATTRACT School Auditorium Filled For Annual Musical Exercises

Observance of the Christmas season, as conducted in churches and schools of the community, was started Sunday with at least two outstanding exercises attracting large audiences.

Included was the annual Sunday vesper service conducted in the High School auditorium by 130 pupils directed by Mrs. Melvin Kiger, supervisor of vocal music in Circleville's schools. The school auditorium was crowded for the vesper rites, additional chairs being required to help seat the audience.

A girls' glee club, mixed chorus and boys' choir were presented by Mrs. Kiger, all three doing excellent work. Accompanists were Bonita Hulse and Eleanor McDill.

Following an annual custom, pupils of the High School were gathered around the Christmas tree in the hall of the building Monday to sing carols. Schools in Circleville will be dismissed Tuesday at 3 p. m. for the holiday vacation.

Grades Have Rites

Numerous grades throughout the city are conducting Christmas programs Monday and Tuesday to which parents and other patrons of the schools have been invited.

"The Christ Child," by Hawley, sung by the vested choir directed by Mrs. James P. Moffitt, with Mrs. Ervin Leist as organist, was presented in an excellent manner Sunday evening in the Methodist Church. The cantata, a lovely work for the Christmas season, featured solos by several members of the well-trained group. At the conclusion of the cantata, the choir climaxed the evening's program by singing the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "The Messiah." The congregation stood during the presentation of the finale.

Many of the city's churches are planning programs during the remainder of the week, with youngsters and grownups having important roles. The climax of the Christmas season will be reached next Sunday.

NEW MOVE FOR SINKING OF SPEE PENSION DRAWN CHEERS BRITISH

Petitions To Be Started For "$50 At 60" Issue; Provisions Altered

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18—A new pension proposal embodying all points of the "$50 at 60" plan defeated by the Ohio electorate last November, underwent a final drafting today by supporters of the Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, Cincinnati.

Morris H. Wolf, chairman of the legal committee of the Bigelow group, told an audience of 200 at Metal Trades Temple that the new pension amendment has been written so it will be "incapable of misrepresentation" and will be placed on the ballot next November.

He read what he said was an "almost final draft" of the new amendment and said that a few minor changes might be made before the ballot.

FIVE KILLED AS FLAMES SWEEP HOME FOR BOYS

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 18—Five persons were burned to death at the Gracewood home for mental defectives at Gracewood, near Augusta, early today when a fire of unknown origin swept through a wooden building.

The dead were listed as: Floyd Little, 15, of Savannah. Hoyt Cook, 15, of Atlanta. Willard Youmans, 22, of Valdosta.

Curtis Sargent, 17, of Gainesville.

Durwood Creech, 15, of Augusta.

The fire was discovered by one of the boys housed in the dormitory. He immediately awakened attendants in the building, who successfully removed the 24 other boys to safety. The blaze was said to have started on the first floor, which was used as a laundry.

E. H. Schwall, superintendent, said he was unable to make an official statement at present concerning the fire, but said he had warned the state of the condition of the building, said to have been an old barn that had been converted into the dormitory.

Winter Arrives To Help Finns

Decisive Battle Being Staged In Cold Polar Region; More Russ Losses Cited HELSINKI, Dec. 18—Winter and heavy snow set in with full force on all Finnish war fronts today, tremendously aiding the Finnish defenders in their right to stem Soviet Russia's invasion.

On the northern and middle fronts the temperature was well below freezing, and in this frigid polar darkness a heavy battle was raging at Pitkajärvi which may prove decisive.

On this battle front, south of the Russian occupied town of Salmijärvi in the Far North, Helsinki authorities said they expected dramatic developments within a day or two.

Reports from the battle front told how 20 Finns remained hidden in Salmijärvi after the town was evacuated and machine gunned and killed the first Russian company that entered to the last man.

At the same time, military officials claimed Finnish troops won new victories over the Russians on the middle and southern fronts and announced destruction or capture of 176 Soviet tanks since hostilities began.

30 Tanks Destroyed

During the last two days, it was stated, 30 Russian tanks have been destroyed.

A Finnish communiqué stated: "On the Karelian Isthmus Soviet attacks supported by artillery continued to be repulsed. The enemy tried to cross the Suunto River and was turned back."

"In the district of Loimala, (also on the Karelian Front) two Russian battalions suffered heavy losses. Near Aglaejaevi a violent fight took place and the coastal batteries of Lake Ladoga destroyed three out of a column of Russian armored cars."

"There were slightly Soviet air bombardments of Petsamo and northern Lapland. The Finnish air force was active near the front. Our aircraft also bombed."

LUXEMBOURG POLICE PUT IN PUBLIC BUILDINGS

BRUSSELS, Dec. 18—New measures taken by authorities in the grand duchy of Luxembourg have caused disquiet among the population, the Belgian news agency reported today, stating that police have been stationed at public buildings and other precautions taken for undisclosed reasons.

The Luxembourg government held a meeting that lasted until late last night, but the topic discussed was not revealed.

Well informed sources in Brussels declared rumors that German troops are about to enter Luxembourg are unfounded.

A love affair culminated in the birth of an illegitimate child and her earnings became more meagre, Mrs. Irelan's confession said. She hired a room for $2.25 a week in North Philadelphia, smuggled Charles in without her landlady's knowledge and smothered the child with a pillow last Wednesday, the woman continued.

STERN PROTEST DRAFTED AFTER GRAF SPEE LOSS

Violation Of International Law Charged; Hitler In Tribute To Crew

SABOTAGE CRY VOICED

Berlin Says Internment In Montevideo "Out Of Question"

BERLIN, Dec. 18—A wave of bitterness against Uruguay as a result of the loss of the Admiral Graf Spee swept Germany today with revelation that the Reich government has lodged a stern protest with the Montevideo government.

The protest termed the refusal of the Uruguayan government to grant the pocket battleship "time to restore its seaworthiness" a "flagrant violation of international law."

The Graf Spee was sunk outside Montevideo harbor last night after Uruguay insisted that it either leave the port or be interned for duration of the war.

Today Germany criticized Uruguay for allegedly giving in to British pressure to force the Graf Spee to leave the harbor.

Responsible quarters declared the German protest will not close the matter and added:

"Nor will the German people ever forget."

Chancellor Hitler, who personally gave the order for the sinking of the Graf Spee, ordered flags throughout German at half-mast.

PLANE CRASHES, KILLS AMERICAN OLYMPIC RUNNER

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 18—An airplane crash today had snuffed out the life of Francis Patrick (Pat) Dengis, 37, three times national champion marathon runner and a member of the United States Olympics team in 1936.

Dengis and a companion, Richard Henry Sohn, 21, were killed when the plane which Sohn was believed to have been piloting crashed about 14 miles from Baltimore.

Mother Strangles Son, Cuts Body With Saw

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18—Charged with homicide by suffocation, 35-year-old Mrs. Tillie Irelan awaited arraignment today with the same composure which marked her confession that she strangled her 20-month-old son, Charles, and dismembered his body with a small saw.

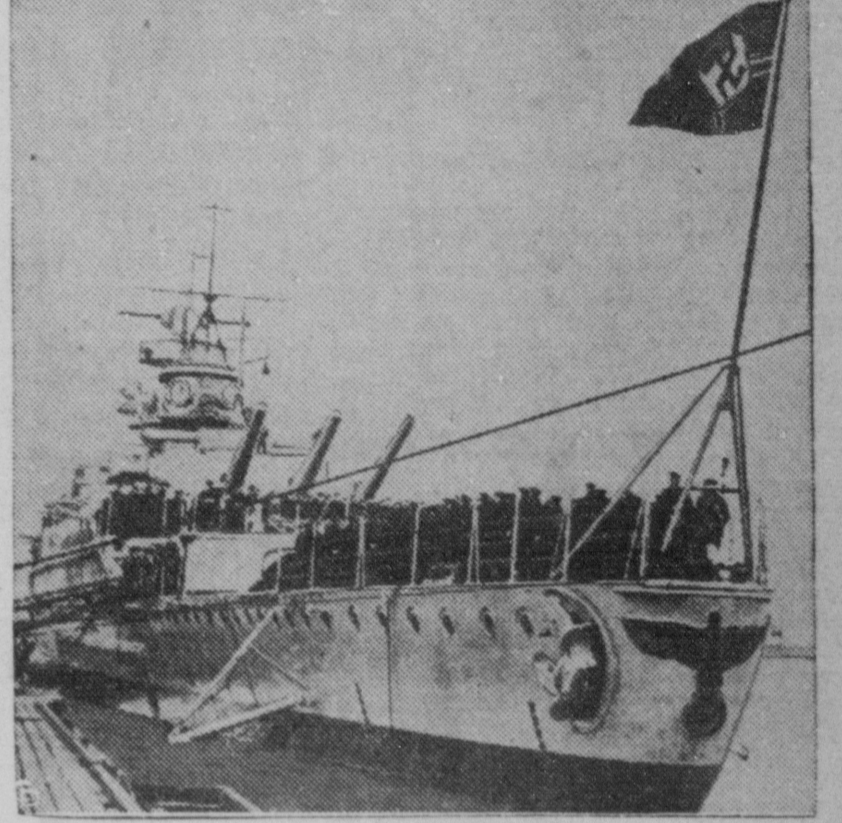

Inability to earn enough as a housemaid to support the infant and her desire for gay parties, detectives believed, prompted the crime. Mrs. Irelan, a comely, estranged wife, was lodged in jail last night, 24 hours after a pedestrian discovered the headless torso of her son near a North Philadelphia Cemetery.

"I was sick and tired of it," she told detectives. "I couldn't afford to keep him, and I couldn't lock him up and go out to work or to parties." The woman stood dry-eyed as the remnants of her child's body were presented in evidence before the coroner.

Meanwhile, police had arrested Theodore Thompson, 43, a gas station employee and admittedly a close friend of Mrs. Irelan. "I didn't even know she had a kid," Thompson sobbed as he was held as a material witness.

Captain Orders Ship Blown Up To Escape Another Fight With British, Internment In Montevideo; Crew To Be Detained

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 18—Blown up by her own captain and crew in preference to internment or battle with a superior British fleet, the once proud German pocket battleship fell to pieces on the muddy floor of the River Plate estuary off Montevideo Harbor today.

Still rocked by periodic explosions almost sixteen hours after Captain Hans Langsdorff and his crew scuttled one of the finest vessels of the German navy, the Graf Spee's super-structure gave way at 8:15 a. m. when the mast and conning tower burned through and toppled into the water.

This left the smoking hulk virtually at water level while Captain Langsdorff, freed after brief detention by Uruguayan officials, was on his way to Argentina with his crew to be interned at the Argentine naval base at Rio Santiago.

The Graf Spee was deliberately blown up and sunk in flames last night under the instructions of her commander, Captain Hans Langsdorff, who accused Uruguayan officials of "purposely sabotaging" repair work on the crippled vessel after it entered Montevideo harbor from a battle with three British cruisers.

Frequent Blasts Heard

As late as 4 a. m. today, many hours after the first explosion converted the ship into a blazing furnace, the upper structure of the vessel that protruded above the surface of the water shot flames into the sky, fed by frequent explosions.

Authorities at Buenos Aires maintained strict secrecy as to when and where the Graf Spee crew will arrive. But it was presumed the German officers and sailors would disembark and be interned at the naval barracks at Rio Santiago, some 40 miles from Buenos Aires.

It was learned that seven tons of explosives were used to destroy the Graf Spee, and this accounted for the duration of the war.

Meanwhile, the German embassy disclaimed knowledge of the whereabouts of the Graf Spee's crew, but it was generally believed they were heading for the Argentine military base at Rio Santiago for internment.

THREE DIE IN MISHAP; HIGHWAY IS "ROUGHED"; FOUR MORE ARE HURT

CHILLICOTHE, Dec. 18—Four persons were recovering today from painful injuries sustained when their automobile overturned on the same section of route 35, east of Frankfort, where three persons were fatally injured last week.

After the fatal crash, the highway department "roughened" the slippery section. But yesterday, a car driven by Ralph Mason, Middletown, upset, injuring himself, his wife and two daughters, Virginia, 14 and Charma, six.

GRAF SPEE SENT TO BOTTOM BY ADOLF'S ORDER

Hitler Believes Scuttling Better Than Fight Or Port Internment

URUGUAY IS ASSAILED

Wireless Report To Berlin Says Thousands Prayed For Nazi Sailors

BERLIN, Dec. 18—Chancellor Hitler personally gave the order to Captain Hans Langsdorff of the Admiral Graf Spee to blow up his ship rather than face the guns of a waiting Allied fleet or submit it to internment by Uruguay.

This announcement was published prominently by German newspapers today, which said the Fuehrer transmitted his orders to Captain Langsdorff following the failure of Uruguay to grant the Graf Spee sufficient time in Montevideo Harbor to effect repairs.

The press stressed this point after the Berlin radio broadcast this announcement:

"It is learned that it is not impossible that the German government may lodge a sharp protest with the Uruguayan government because of the latter's attitude."

There was no doubt that German officials were aroused by Uruguay's refusal to permit the pocket battleship to remain at Montevideo beyond yesterday afternoon following its dash into the harbor last week after a running battle with three British cruisers.

Earlier, broadcasting a report from Montevideo, the German wireless had reported that the Admiral Graf Spee left its moorings last evening and "slowly steamed out of the harbor of Montevideo into the falling darkness."

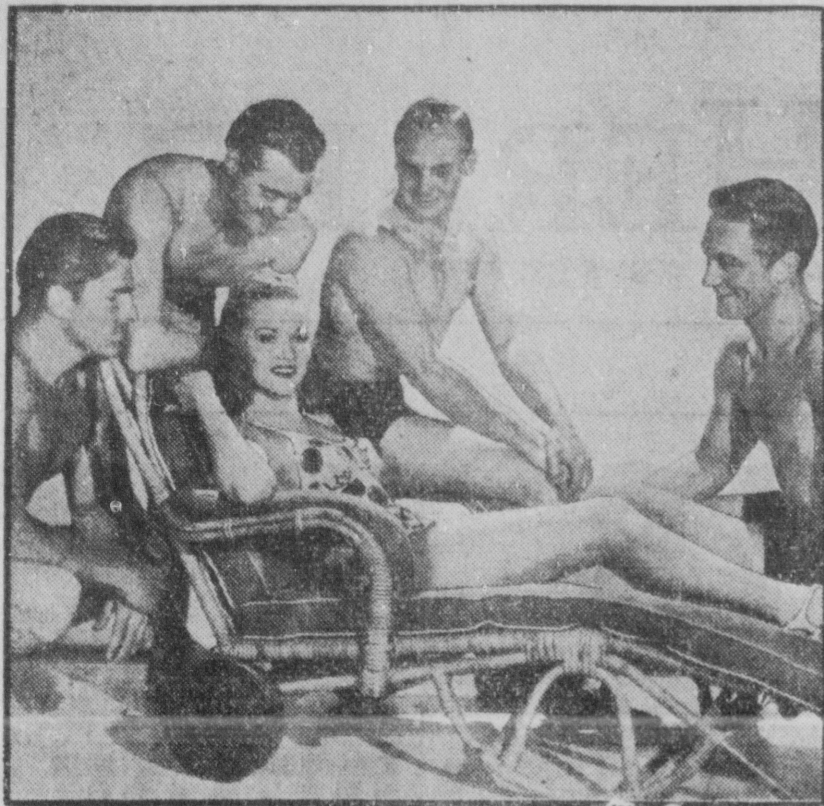

Thousands Watch
It added that thousands of persons watching the vessel's departure, "prayed for the lives of the German sailors still on board the vessel."

During the few hours preceding the Graf Spee's departure, said this account, the greater part of her crew had been taken aboard the German freighter Tacoma.

The launches effecting this transfer, said the German radio, were "decorated with flowers" and the "crowd again and again cheered Germany and the brave crew of the Admiral Graf Spee."

"It was generally believed," the announcer told his listeners, "that the Graf Spee would sink herself close to the coast immediately after leaving the harbor so as not to become the prey of British

BURGLARS ESCAPE WITH $90 LAURELVILLE LOOT

The sheriff's department reported no developments Monday in the investigation of the theft of about $90 from the Laurel Soho filling station, just across the Pickaway County line from Laurelville.

The theft was discovered Saturday by Charles N. Reynolds, employe of Lloyd Armstrong, the proprietor. The station was entered by breaking a rear window and raising the latch. A small box containing $70 in cash and about $19 in checks was stolen. Other articles in the station were not disturbed. About $100 was overlooked.

DEC. 31 IS LAST DAY TO OBTAIN LOANS ON WHEAT

Farmers who wish to apply for a government loan on their 1939 wheat have until December 31 to complete their applications. John G. Boogs, chairman of the Pickaway County AAA committee, says that no extension will be made in the time for making such loans.

Indirect loans made through lending agencies must be dated prior to January 1, 1940, and loan papers tendered directly to Commodity Credit Corporation must be delivered in person or, if mailed, postmarked prior to January 1, 1940.

The chairman also announced that April 30, 1940 has been set as the maturity date for warehouse loans. It was previously announced that these loans would mature seven months from date, or April 30, 1940, whichever is earlier. The first loans would begin to mature around February 1, 1940. This extension will give producers an additional period within which wheat loans may be repaid.

Loans on farm-stored wheat will mature April 30, 1940.

Farmers who have kept within their wheat acreage allotments under the 1939 Agricultural Conservation Program may borrow on eligible wheat produced in 1939. The rates approximate 75 to 80 percent of the average price received by farmers for their wheat during the past 10 years.

Interest on the loans is 3 percent, a reduction from 4 percent becoming effective November 1.

Two hundred and eighty-three wheat growers in Pickaway County have already taken out 1939 loans. They have stored 123,227 bushels of wheat as collateral.

YANKS' D'MAG TO TAKE PLACE IN FIRST THREE

Great Outfielder May Oust Tris Speaker From Game's Finest Trio

RECORDS ARE ISSUED

Red Rolfe, Other New York Stars Take Numerous Individual Honors

By Pat Robinson
NEW YORK Dec. 18 — Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Babe Ruth are generally accepted as the all-time star outfield of baseball.

But if jolting Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees can continue his amazing work as confirmed by the first batch of official American League averages released today, one of the aforesaid trio will have to give way to Joe, and it won't be Ty or Babe.

After hitting more than .400 for most of the season, Joe wound up with an average of .381 to lead Jimmy Foxx of the Red Sox. Joe also hit 30 homers as against 35 for the league-leading Foxx and 33 for Hank Greenberg of the Tigers, and the amazing Yankee hit for a total of 310 bases as against 344 for Ted Williams who led with 344. But Joe was in only 120 games while Ted played 149.

Joe, of course, was and is the outstanding player in the game but he was not the whole Yankee team by several parangs. There was, for instance, the quiet, unassuming but highly efficient Red Rolfe, the Yankee third baseman, who, without fanfare, led both major leagues in the total number of hits made by a player — 213 — and led his own circuit in doubles — 46 — and in scoring — 139.

Behind Red Sox
The Yanks had a team batting average of .287 which placed them second to the Red Sox who hit for .291 but the Yanks led in homers with 166 and in all-important item — runs batted in — getting 903 which was exactly 70 more than the Red Sox had in second place.

Offhand, you might say the Senators wouldn't have any leaders and yet the figures disclose they had two. George Case led the league with ease in base stealing with 51 pilfered sacks to his credit and Johnny Lewis led in triples with 16.

The more one studies the records, the more one becomes convinced that as the late Tammany leader, Tim Sullivan, used to say, the Yanks really are the people. Joe McCarthy's men either tied or broke more than a score of individual and team American, major and World Series records.

Gehrig Mark Ends
Among the more interesting major league marks smashed was that established by the ill-fated Lou Gehrig who wound up a glorious career by playing his 2,130th consecutive game.

Then there was the Yankee feat of hitting eight homers in a single game against the Athletics and 13 in a doubleheader the same day. The Yanks were the home run kings for the 20th time; hit 100 or more homers for the 18th time and turned the same trick for the 15th consecutive time — all new major league marks.

Jim Tabor of the Red Sox tied a league mark with two homers with bases loaded in one game and four homers in a doubleheader. But, here are those Yanks again: Bill Dickey tied a league mark by catching more than 100 games for the 11th straight year and also hit three homers in one game.

Old Lefty Grove, of the Red Sox, had the best earned run average for the ninth time; and Clint Brown of the White Sox made a new major mark by taking part in 61 incomplete games.

The Yanks also tied a league mark by hitting and scoring in every inning of one game and had the largest shut-out score, 21-0, against the Athletics. Why, they even came up with a negative title when Frank Crosetti led the league in getting hit by a pitcher for the fourth straight year.

No wonder those Yanks are tough to shave.

WOLVES UPSET NOTRE DAME 5 IN GREAT GAME

CHICAGO, Dec. 18 — The Big Ten, which more than held its own against non-conference competition in basketball games over the week end, tonight plunges right along toward the opening of the conference race next month with four more games involving outsiders.

Illinois plays host to Princeton at Champaign; Indiana engages another eastern five, Pittsburgh at Bloomington; Michigan goes against Connecticut State at White Plains, N. Y., and Iowa travels to Butler.

Michigan staged the major surprise Saturday night by defeating previously unbeaten Notre Dame at Ann Arbor, 41 to 39. The Wolves staved off a furious Irish rally that yielded 11 points in the last four minutes to earn the victory.

Northwestern also was successful against an invader, downing Pittsburgh with a last half rally, 39-33. It was Northwestern's third straight win.

Chicago also notched its third straight Saturday, beating Armour Tech, 52 to 27; Minnesota beat South Dakota, 35 to 28, and Ohio State smothered Wooster, 64 to 35.

Wisconsin and Iowa were the only conference losers, the former bowing to Marquette, which it defeated earlier in the season, 41 to 28, and the Hawkeyes losing to Wayne University, 34 to 30.

DENISON LOOKS LIKE CREAM OF OHIO COLLEGES

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18 — Sporting three victories, Denison University today assumed an early lead in the week-old Ohio Conference basketball pennant chase.

The Big Red five, an underdog in pre-season calculations, won its first game from Kenyon and then outclassed Heidelberg and Findlay in a round-robin tournament at Findlay.

In the statewide race, Ohio University and Ohio Wesleyan appeared to have aggregations which would not succumb easily to defeat. Both squads have scored two victories against no defeats and both have accumulated high scores in winning.

In its two starts, Ohio U. has scored 132 points against 68 for the opposition while Wesleyan's sharp shooters have amassed 117 markers to 68 for opponents. Toledo fell from the top ranking list Saturday night when Princeton snared a 52 to 38 victory. Previously, the Rockets had won five straight.

The menu for the coming week features 35 games, including one Ohio Conference fray, Wooster at Ashland on Saturday night.

BYRON NELSON CLASSED AS GOLF STAR OF YEAR

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 18 — Although he was able to finish no better than fifth in the final golf tournament of the year yesterday — the $10,000 Miami Open — Byron Nelson, National Open champion, today was professional golfdom's number one man for 1939.

His showing in the Miami tournament, won by Slammin' Sam Snead with a blazing final round of 64, gave Nelson 19 points and the Harry Vardon trophy, emblematic of supremacy among golfers. Henry Picard, P. G. A. champ who finished in a 14th place tie in the Miami event, was runner-up for the Vardon trophy with 461 points to Nelson's 473.

It was Snead, however, who stole the show here yesterday. His 64 was six below par, equalled the course record and gave him a 72-hole count of 271. Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Boston was two strokes behind the West Virginian, coming home with a final 67 for a total 273.

Conn Being Hurried Into Louis Bout

By Lawton Carver
NEW YORK, Dec. 18 — Due largely to the usual scarcity of good light heavyweights, Billy Conn, of Pittsburgh, champion of the division, is about to make a serious bid for a place among the heavyweights, specifically, on January 10 he will tangle up with showprow Steve Dudas in a 10-round bout, which will be Conn's second start among the big fellows and another step toward an eventual knockout at the hands of Joe Louis.

We haven't changed our opinion of Conn as a potential heavy-weight championship challenger and possible title-holder some day, but from all we can gather around here, there is a budding tendency to rush Conn into the Louis fight, instead of waiting, say, a year or two or three. To make this match within the year is going to be fatal, if this is planned. Conn won handsily enough, but he didn't have enough punch to keep Gus Lesnevich off of him when they met for the light heavy title a few weeks ago. What Louis would do to Conn any time soon is strictly a matter for the corner.

However, let us be the first to suggest the likelihood that Dudas won't even lay a glove on Conn in the 10 rounds they will go, with Conn ultimately and inevitably winning the decision.

The tough, fast, sweet-stepping young light heavyweight champion has what it takes to beat the likes of Dudas all right. In his first heavyweight venture he stopped one Gus Dorazio, who is about two grades below Dudas, whose chief claim to fame is that he was knocked out a short while ago by Max Schmeling.

Nevertheless a win over Dudas will be another point in Conn's favor in his move toward serious contention as a heavyweight.

C. A. C. TO TAKE ON WONDER '5'

Exhibition Contest Listed For Circleville Court Monday Evening

Circleville Athletic Club cagers, becoming stronger with each joust, will be provided a true test of ability Monday evening when the original Waterloo Wonders invade the Club balliwick. A capacity crowd is expected to be in the audience as the two teams angle.

The game will follow a fast preliminary scheduled for 7:30 between the Caskey Cleaners and Bob's Sohios of Columbus. The Bob team is a fast one and will give the Caskey outfit a struggle for honors.

But most of the evening's interest is centered in the C. A. C. and Waterloo game.

Starting lineups are expected to be:

Waterloo	C. A. C.
W. Roberts	F..... Millar
Drummond	F..... Ankrom
Hosket	C..... Walden
O. Roberts	G..... Purcell
McMahon	G..... Kaiser

Because this is the week before a holiday there will be no City League basketball games Wednesday evening, but three independent contests will be offered on the C. A. C. court.

The first, scheduled at 7:30 o'clock, will be between the City Club of Chillicothe and Wallace's Bakery; the second between Leader A. C., Columbus, and the Purina Chows, and the third between the Richardson Steel and Iron Co. of Springfield against the Circleville Athletic Club team.

The Springfield outfit is reported to be a mighty one, Wittenberg and Springfield High stars being included in the roster.

AKRON ALL-STARS WIN

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18 — The Akron All-Stars today boasted a 40-37 victory over the Columbus Athletic Supply quintet in a professional basketball game in Columbus. A last quarter rally by the Supply team failed by three points. Al Lawrence of Akron and Dick Boughner of Columbus each chalked up a dozen points.

3,600 Baby Quail Used To Stock New York Area

MIDDLE ISLAND, N. J., Dec. 18 — The New York State Quail Farm has 3,600 baby quail, an 18-year record, ready for release next spring to restock upstate forests and Long Island and Westchester woodlands.

The 240-acre farm, the only one of its kind in the state, kept its hens working overtime during the breeding season last spring and summer and, unless disease hits the birds, expects to liberate enough quail to keep hunters happy during future shooting seasons.

The quail are housed in rows of small wooden pens in an open field behind the farm house. Their care is directed by Joseph T. Carroll, superintendent of the farm.

Subject to Disease

He explains that the 3,600 birds, five months old and three quarters grown, may be greatly reduced by disease and cannibalism before spring. Quail, harder to raise than pheasants, are subject to sinus trouble, tuberculosis, and intestinal ailment known as cockle disease and a disease which resembles appendicitis.

Carroll keeps the two-story nursery which houses 2,000 birds dark except for six hours a day. In the darkness, the quail gather in coveys and are less apt to peck each other to death, a cannibalistic tendency which makes the species difficult to raise in captivity.

Carroll smears the birds with a bad tasting oil and clips their beaks every week in order to curb cannibalism.

The two dangers, disease and quail pugnacity may kill as many as 25 percent of the flock before it is freed, Carroll said.

The farm superintendent said that he would release all but 370 pairs next spring. Those kept in captivity will be used for breeding. The breeding season lasts from April until late July. Each hen

HUMMINGBIRD PASSAGE SOUTH IS ATTEMPTED

DETROIT — Fred Klein's hummingbird turned out to be a brown creeper and Fred has been getting the bird ever since.

Klein found the now-legendary bird in his yard. Knowing a hummingbird would die during a Michigan winter, he talked officials of three airline companies into ferrying it to South America and persuaded the Interior Department to issue a special permit allowing the bird's export.

The bird left Detroit as scheduled but on arrival in Washington, D. C., was identified as a brown creeper — a species which certainly couldn't stand South American heat.

Enroute back to its Detroit sponsors the brown creeper escaped from an airliner near Pittsburgh.

Slightly pink about the ears, Klein gratefully concluded the bird was out of his life forever. But since then:

1—Fellow employees at the Detroit City Airport passed the hat and announced the proceeds would be used to buy Klein a membership in the Audubon Society.

2—A commemorative ode, complete in every detail although of challengeable literary merit, was composed and is chanted to Klein early and often.

3—He is unable to escape sotto whistled strains of "Listen to the Mocking Bird."

STERN PROTEST DRAFTED AFTER GRAF SPEE LOSS

Violation Of International Law Charged; Hitler In Tribute To Crew

In mourning for the loss of the Graf Spee.

But qualified quarters declared: "We do not let our heads hang. We merely pay tribute to a courageous captain and crew and a splendid ship."

"In a war big losses must be expected. Our decisive weapons are not warships but more effective ones which will be used at the right place."

The same quarters, discussing charges that efforts to repair the Graf Spee were "sabotaged," declared that of the three ship repair shops at Montevideo, two were English and one was French.

They added that internment under control of Uruguay would have left the Graf Spee open to espionage and sabotage, and that Uruguay "under English pressure" could not have prevented spying on the secrets of German pocket battleships had the vessel remained in the harbor.

SINKING OF SPEE WINTER ARRIVES CHEERS BRITISH TO HELP FINNS

Graf Spee's departure from Montevideo harbor and its scuttling provided a dramatic scene in the admiralty operations room in England.

Rapid-fire messages poured into the famous map-lined room, filled with navy chiefs, from their communications center.

An atmosphere of tense excitement prevailed as the naval leaders studied a 20 by 16 foot wall map in which pins indicated the exact location of all warships within 500 miles of the mouth of the River Plata. Several plans of naval strategy were ready for instant use had the Graf Spee elected to put up a fight against the British warships lined up outside the harbor.

Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, remained in touch with the operations room by telephone.

At the same time it was announced that two German airplanes machine-gunned, bombed and sank the London steamer Serenity eight miles off the English East Coast.

A fighting boat picked up eight members of the crew, none of whom was injured.

British pursuit planes drove off the attacking aircraft and it was reported one of the German planes was destroyed.

A Reuters dispatch from Oslo said the Norwegian steamer Strindheim was sunk, apparently when it struck a mine near the Scottish coast. Eight crew members were reported missing and two others were rescued. The body of the Strindheim's captain was recovered.

(In Berlin the German radio announced that a 1,100-ton British steamer Amble struck a mine and sank off the northeast English coast. Its crew of 17 was rescued.)

The British air ministry announced that German planes appeared at several points off the East Coast yesterday, and were attacked by British anti-aircraft batteries and pursuit planes. It was reported the German craft were attempting to attack a ship convoy. One Nazi bomber was seen dropping towards the sea, apparently out of control.

PRIDE OF NAZI RAIDERS SINKS

for the earth-shaking explosions that ripped the vessel from stern to stern and sent it to the bottom.

Reports received in Buenos Aires indicated that the German government probably will send strong representations to the Uruguayan government, accusing authorities at Montevideo of refusing to allow sufficient time for the Graf Spee to undergo repairs.

Repairs Sabotaged

Such a protest undoubtedly will be supported, it was believed, by Captain Langsdorff's charges that repair work was sabotaged. In a bitter letter to German Minister Otto Langmann in Montevideo, the sea captain made his charges a short time before sailing his vessel out of the harbor and scuttling it—with the approval of Chancellor Hitler and without loss of a single life.

The captain's letter charged that the Uruguayan government disregarded international law by not permitting the Graf Spee to remain long enough to complete repairs.

Insisting the vessel was battle-worthy, he charged that all chances of restoring her to navigability were "sabotaged purposely" by engineers of the only Montevideo concern capable of carrying out the work, and "to a lesser extent by customs authorities who placed serious obstacles in the path of delivering materials for repairs."

He said he determined to sink the vessel "not because of the danger of enemy action" but because she could not be navigated safely as a result of the hammering she took in last Wednesday's sea battle.

"It was not," he wrote, "because of the danger of enemy action, but exclusively because my ship was in no condition to navigate that I commanded my men to scuttle the Admiral Graf Spee."

"For reasons set forth in this letter I am indisposed to deliver control of my ship to Uruguay. My ship did not suffer in the slightest degree so far as her combative strength was concerned.

"Under these circumstances the only solution for me was to sink my ship, blowing it up after disembarking the crew."

Captain Langsdorff sent his ship down as five warplanes, believed to be allied craft from waiting British and French warships anchored off the La Plata estuary, soared overhead.

She settled at about 6 p. m. in about 25 feet of water after a second mighty blast ripped her steel frame.

The decision to sink the ship was reached when it was compelled to leave Montevideo and was cornered by some 14 British and French warships waiting for the kill as soon as it might appear. The Graf Spee went down stern first with her swastika still flying at her staff.

With her personnel safely off the boat, the first explosion at 5:45 p. m. sent a sheet of flame leaping hundreds of feet into the air. Twenty minutes later a second blast that rocked the surrounding countryside sent the ship to its grave.

Later Captain Langsdorff and his officers boarded the Argentine coast guard boat Libertad, which set out for Argentina.

The Graf Spee was scuttled at a spot on the estuary's outer roadstead away from the regular steamer channel in order not to block traffic. It left the harbor only half an hour before the deadline stipulated by the Uruguayan government for departure of internment for duration of the war.

fore it is submitted to the electors.

A. R. McNamara, defeated in his quest for a municipal judgeship last November, and Christ Williams, Bigelow campaign manager in northern Ohio, said petitions for the new amendment would be ready within 60 days.

The new plan provides that all persons 60 years old or more, who have resided in Ohio the preceding 10 years shall be eligible for pensions—$50 a month for single persons and $80 a month for married couples.

All land, exclusive of buildings and improvements which exceeds $20,000 an acre in value would be taxed two percent and the amendment also provides for an income tax equal to one-quarter of the income tax paid to the federal government.

Both plans for paying the pensions were included in the defeated amendment.

FIGHT BETWEEN GOVERNOR, NEW DEAL CONTINUES

Ickes Challenges Bricker To Debate Over Relief Problem In State

DAVEY, FERGUSON ENTER

Ex-Executive Says Present Official Spendthrift Quoting Figures

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18—Verbal barrages reverberated along the national and state political fronts today in Governor Bricker's "war of words" with New Deal officials who had charged him with neglecting Ohio's needy unemployed.

Latest salvo came from Washington where Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes reportedly had challenged Bricker to a debate on the relief issue. It followed shortly after the Ohio chief executive had made a New York speech which was broadcast nationally, in which he once again charged the federal administration was to blame for relief conditions in his state.

At the same time, local political circles buzzed over entry into the fray of former Gov. Martin L. Davey and Auditor of State Joseph T. Ferguson, both Democrats. The two challenged Bricker's claim in his New York address that his administration had saved the state of Ohio $100,000,000 in 1939.

Another On Radio

Meanwhile, Bricker prepared another speech on relief which was to be broadcast over a state-wide hookup from radio station WLW, Cincinnati, tomorrow at 7:15 p. m. From safe vantage points, neutral political warriors speculated on the possible reasons and the ultimate outcome of the Bricker-New Deal battles. All agreed, however, on the fact that the circumstances had catapulted Bricker into the national political picture with such force there was little doubt now about his being the outstanding "dark-horse" candidate for the G. O. P. presidential nomination next year.

During his New York visit, the Ohioan denied interest in the presidential campaign as a possible candidate, reiterating that he wanted to be elected to a second term as governor on the economy platform that drew New Deal fire.

Addressing the Ohio Society in New York Saturday night, Bricker refrained from mentioning his critics by name. He branded New Deal spenders "political hitchhikers," and contended that "the political pork barrel never can become the wheel of American progress," as he pointed out his own economies. His only direct reference to his opponents was when he said:

"It affords me the high privilege of assuring you all that Ohio is still there. We have not been taken over by the White House or the Department of Interior."

Bricker explained that Ohio had increased appropriations for welfare and public assistance, education and old age pensions without increasing taxes; paid $8,000,000 on an inherited $40,000,000 debt and still had been able to save $10,000,000 on payroll and maintenance.

Ohio Doing Part

"I do not seek the approbation of those office holders who revel in their accomplishments as financial hitchhikers," Bricker told the Ohio group. Then he continued:

"In Ohio we are doing our part. For seven years promises, experiments, pump priming and political manipulation have failed to bring satisfaction to the hopes of the people of the United States. Nor can our social or economic problems be solved by name-calling, crack-down or purge. Their solution requires integrity, intelligence and tolerance."

Davey immediately took issue with his successor over his economy claims, and in a letter to the chief executive branded him as "the great spendthrift governor of Ohio." The Kent tree surgeon charged that the economy claims were "deliberate falsehoods" and that Bricker's relief policies were "hard-hearted and callously indifferent."

Instead, Davey asserted, the Republican administration in Ohio is spending $7,000,000 more this year than it collected, and that the appropriation for 1939-40 was $21,000,000 more than it was in his own second term.

Grangers To Meet With State Liquor Director

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18—A movement aimed at curtailing drinking in Ohio through an "educational program" was foreseen today as Ohio Grange leaders indicated they would discuss the liquor question with State Liquor Director Jacob Taylor.

State Grange Master Walter Kirk hinted that the Grange would designate a committee to confer with Taylor within the near future. Taylor said he would be amiable toward any delegations and that he was "willing to cooperate in every way" with the Grange.

The idea sprouted from a resolution adopted by the Grange during its annual state convention last week. The resolution branded liquor conditions in the state as worse than during the prohibition years.

Explaining the resolution, Kirk told International News Service that the Grange did not mean to criticize the liquor department and its enforcement policies.

"But," he added, "rural communities believe the liquor problem is spreading out of bounds. Rural communities must protect themselves the same as the cities." Rural Ohio is predominately dry.

Asked if farmers did not benefit financially from selling grain which eventually landed in distilleries, Kirk replied: "that is so but in the long run, the loss is more than the gain."

He explained his statement, contending that money used to purchase liquor might well be spent on farm products generally.

No Resolution Voted

Asked for their stand on liquor conditions as they now exist in Ohio, state Farm Bureau spokesmen said no official resolution on the subject had been adopted by the Bureau. They added, however, that it was their belief that the majority of their members felt the same as the Grange.

S. P. McNaught, Ohio Anti-Saloon League Chief, praised the Grange resolution. He expressed the hope that the rural organization would succeed in its avowed purpose to launch a "constructive non-drinking campaign."

Taylor was somewhat mystified over the resolution and declined to issue an official statement. But he did comment briefly, saying:

"People drank during prohibition and they drink now. I am open to any suggestions from the Grange. I will be happy to cooperate with the organization and confer with any committee it might send."

Taylor has often asserted that if Ohio liquor laws were violated constantly, the state would once again revert to a prohibition era.

Kirk said the Grange's educational program, when presented, would deal with "facts concerning liquor." The campaign, he said, would be waged in the "schools and public press."

LESSONS FROM LIFE

HUMAN beings, says William Lyon Phelps of Yale University, could learn valuable lessons from the ant, the rabbit, the locust and the spider.

The first-named teaches thrift by spending the summer storing food for future use.

The rabbit has no protection except speed, but that is enough most of the time. He often makes his home in the rocks, increasing his security. He teaches that "even the most feeble beings have a refuge."

The locusts, Dr. Phelps says, show how to live by cooperation, without dictators or king. The spider teaches that "lebensraum" isn't important for "no matter how our living space is circumscribed, our mind and imagination can range far afield."

It is all very interesting, but why stop at four creatures? Man could learn poise from the cat, loyalty from the dog, service from the cow, obedience from the horse, cunning from all the wild animals, fearlessness from some, caution from others, and so on, without nature-faking or overworking a good idea.

And why stop with animals? The human race could even learn from its own experience, if it really wanted to.

BOOKS FOR SOLDIERS

MAJOR JOHN BEITH, the English writer and lecturer known to Americans as Ian Hay, believes the British Tommies can safely be allowed to think for themselves when it comes to books. As director of public relations at the War Office he has been responsible for the selection of reading matter for the men at the front.

Thus, when Dr. Goebbels of Germany decided to send the British and French troops selections from Hitler's "Mein Kampf", his propaganda effort proved fruitless. Ian Hay and his French colleague had already provided them with complete texts of that work. Also on the list of 1,321 titles available to them are Karl Marx's "Capital" and Douglas's "Social Credit." The famous pacifist work, Barbusse's "Under Fire", and "Tolstoi's "War and Peace" are others.

It sound like a stiff course for a bunch of fellows who might naturally be expected to want something distracting. The lighter side has not been neglected. The Allied soldiers have volumes on travel, philosophy, ethics, religion and games to choose from. No doubt there are also work on fiction, drama and poetry. With a literary man on the job, who does not consider himself a censor or propagandist, the library at the front has been intelligently assembled.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

NOBODY who's old enough to remember much about the last World War can avoid basing his general conclusions concerning the present European conflict upon his observation of developments during the 1914-18 unpleasantness.

I was on the job in that earlier era.

Shortly after the current rum-pus broke out, a representative of one of our straw vote syndicates asked me, as a news veteran dating back to its predecessor, if I believed the United States would get into the present one.

My answer was that, if this thing continues for very long, we're pretty sure to become involved in it.

Now I begin to think I was mistaken.

In 1914 we emphatically didn't want to be tangled up in Europe's rookus—and didn't expect to be, either. In due course we were, though. It seemed to me a good-sized probability that history would repeat itself.

We don't act like it, though. True, at this stage of the game in 1914 we didn't act like it, either. However, at that time we were positive we wouldn't be entangled. We didn't suppose it was necessary for us to adopt "quarantine" measures, as President Roosevelt calls them. Today we're desperately afraid that we'll be dragged in, and we ARE quarantining with a vengeance.

I recall a Capitol Hill statesman saying in 1915 that Uncle Sam would want to have a voice in final post-war peace terms, and that he couldn't very well have such a voice if he hadn't been a belligerent; accordingly that he'd better classify himself as at least a mild belligerent.

Right now, I'll bet a congressman would be burned in effigy if he made a similar remark.

SENATOR NYE'S CONTRIBUTION

Senator Nye's neutrality crusade had a lot to do with consolidating American anti-war public sentiment.

Yes, the North Dakota solon's absolute embargo on Yankee arms sales to foreign belligerents was knocked out recently. But it was knocked out only on the ground that the administration had an even more air-tight anti-belligerent plan to offer.

The case's merits are open to discussion.

Nye and his followers maintain that their scheme was the air-tightest of the two. The administration insisted that ITS was the air-tightest. The fact remains that what was deemed to be the air-tightest won.

That shows what Americans demand—all the air-tightness that's imaginable.

There was no such cohesion in this country in the 'teens of our century.

A tribute also has to be paid to Senator Nye—

He started our neutrality crusade. His investigation of the last war's causes and profits and international debt defalcations and miscellaneous evils (not to mention subsequent economic dislocations) did an infinity of good in a pacifistic direction. It doesn't matter that his specific program has been modified.

ONCE IN A GENERATION

The historic dope is that each generation has to have a war.

The 1939-? war is a bit too soon after the 1914-18 war to be popular.

Too many survivors of the 1914-18 war are left to like the looks of another one.

The American Legion, I notice, is as pacifistic as any peace organization.

If today's war fizzles out, as it threatens to do, maybe the world can have a really good war in 50 years or so, when we folks'll be dead from natural causes.

It's premature at this writing.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

WHITE HOUSE THUMBS DOWN

WASHINGTON—The search for spies, plus other crime-deterrent factors, has brought the question of universal fingerprinting up for consideration at the White House. At first the President seemed to lean toward the idea that it would be a good plan to require everyone in the United States to be finger-printed. However, he is now inclined against it.

Reason the plan did not get very far was this: It was pointed out by close advisers that to make finger-printing effective as a crime-detector, it would have to be done every year.

A man who commits a crime naturally becomes a fugitive from justice at once. His finger-prints might be known, but this knowledge would not help catch him unless he and everyone in the country were re-finger-printed at regular intervals.

Such a system, it was pointed out to Roosevelt, might eventually transform the United States to a status similar to Europe, where strangers registered in hotels have to fill in police reports or show a passport with their finger-prints stamped on it.

So, for the time being, the White House has turned thumbs down on finger-prints.

MISSING GARNERS

There are 95 Garners in the latest Washington telephone book—but not John Nance Garner, Vice President of the U. S. When in the Capital he stays at a hotel and does not have a private outside phone.

The only Cabinet member listed in the directory is Harry Woodring, Secretary of War. All the others have unlisted phones.

The President is not listed, but the White House is—National 1414, with an operator on duty day and night. There are no Roosevelts in the directory, but there is a Roosevelt Valet & Laundry Service. Also a White House Cleaners & Dyers and a White House Meat Market.

As a business title, the "New Deal" is almost holding its own in Washington. In 1934 there were six firms listed as "New Deal" so-and-so. In 1938, when the GOP hit the political jackpot, the number of "New Deal" firms dropped to four. But now the number is up to five.

You can also find a George Washington in the new directory. He is a carpenter. There are other George Washingtons, but they have middle initials.

A unique listing in the directory is the League for Larger Life. Inquiry disclosed that it has 25 members, interested in health, psychology, progressive trends of thought. They stage a dance once a week, run a summer camp and serve only vegetarian meals.

GOVERNOR STARK

When Lloyd Stark, crime-crusading Governor of Missouri, was in Washington recently, he had a reunion with the man who revolutionized the process of stoking fires in the boiler rooms of naval vessels. He is Captain William Russell White, one of the great engineers of the Navy, and chief engineer on the U. S. S. Montana when Governor Stark was just out of Annapolis 30 years ago.

At that time no naval vessels burned oil, and the coal fires were stoked every four hours. Captain White had a theory

DIET AND HEALTH

Milk and Egg-Free Diets Troublesome

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

SENSITIVENESS to foods—food allergy—fortunately occurs most frequently with foods that are easy to get along without. Such offenders as strawberries, lobster, oysters, pork and peanuts can be omitted from the diet without much deprivation or nutritional danger, but when it comes to such fundamental things as milk, eggs and wheat, and it is found that a person has symptoms of catarrh, asthma, hives or diarrhea from these things, the question of treatment is not easy. They are constant requisites of the cook. Hardly any tasty dish is made without the use of either milk, eggs or wheat, and the cook who has to prepare food for a patient of this kind is at a great loss for substitutes.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Most of these cases occur in infancy and in the course of time, in my opinion, nearly all of us acquire an immunity, even if we are not immune at the beginning.

In infants with eczema, however, the problem of a milk-free and egg-free diet is very troublesome. However, milk can be imitated and the chemical constituents of milk in proper proportions made in artificial mixtures. Such a one is made out of soybean flour.

Sometimes simply boiling the milk will give relief. The substitution of goat's milk has been successfully used. The use of evaporated milk sometimes works.

A number of substitutes for wheat foods have been made. For instance:

Cinnamon Toast
Four tablespoons sugar
Two teaspoons cinnamon
Four rye-type wafers

Mix sugar and cinnamon together. Brush rye-type wafers with vegetable oil or shortening and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until light brown. Sprinkle on sugar mixture while warm.

Rye Rice Bread
One and one-third cups rye flour
Two-thirds cup rice flour
One-half teaspoon salt
Six teaspoons sugar
10 teaspoons baking powder
One and one-third cups water
Two teaspoons olive oil

Sift dry ingredients together. Add water and oil, beating thoroughly. Pour into loaf pan greased with olive oil and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 40 minutes. Makes one loaf.

The person who is egg sensitive gets along pretty well because he can eat any breads which do not have eggs used in them. For fats he can use butter, meat, poultry or vegetable fats, olive oil and oleomargarine. He can have all kinds of fruits, meats, nuts, poultry and game, sugars and vegetables. The cook must prepare pastries with no egg. The cinnamon toast and rye-rice bread, for which recipes are given above, come into this field.

Desserts present a great problem for these people but with some ingenuity desserts without either wheat, egg or milk can be concocted. An example is:

Candied Apple Betty
Two large, tart apples
Three-fourths cup brown sugar
One-half cup rye-type crumbs
One-fourth cup vegetable shortening

DON'T FORGET THIS

NOTHING could be more important, in the art of successful leading, than to recognize the situation in which a trump lead is indicated. Many otherwise good players, nevertheless, seem always to avoid a lead of trumps as they would avoid poison, if they can find any other fairly natural lead in their hands. The most compelling time for a lead of the declarer's suit comes when a cross-ruff seems likely from the bidding, because he has shown one side suit and the dummy another.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

By Marie Blizard

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

THE WEDDING reception was over. Dick and his bride departed amid the usual confetti, rice and congratulations a little after eight. In less than a half hour, the crush of guests had thinned out and now they were only ten in the flower-filled drawing room. Already porters were clearing away the debris and Gertrude, with a long gold coat over her yellow lace gown, was still organizing.

"We've only two cars. How shall we divide ourselves?" she asked vaguely, knowing that she'd manage the whole thing. "Mr. Haviland, will you take Mark and Edna? I'll take Fabienne and Nicky in my car. There's room for five, you know, so I can take Miss Chapman and Dr. Mallory. Oh, dear, that leaves Mr. and Mrs. McHenry. Can you manage another two, Mr. Haviland?"

Nicky said, "My roadster's downstairs. I can take Miss Chapman. You wouldn't mind, would you?" he said, turning to her. "You've both a warm coat and a hat."

"Of course not," Ellen agreed. "That's splendid, Nicky, darling. I'll seat you next to Fabienne at the table. Well, I guess that fixes everything," she said, leading the way to the elevator.

"It certainly does," Fabienne said begrudgingly. Mother'd fixed everything so that she'd have to sit beside Bill—"the way uptown while poor Ellen had to ride with Nicky, who probably wouldn't know what to say to her."

She pulled the hood of her fur-lined wrap over her head and glared at the chauffeur's back, prepared to glare all the way to their destination.

"How're you feeling," Bill said professionally.

"Swell," she said grimly. "Some show," he tried again. "Wasn't it? The Seymours always give big shows."

"I was wondering how you'd look walking down that long aisle."

"Scared, probably."

"I wouldn't blame you. It's a long chance you take."

"Is that why you aren't married, Bill?"

"Me? No, I take chances. If I thought I had anything to offer the girl I—I—But I'm only a poor, struggling surgeon."

"Maybe it wouldn't matter—to her, Bill."

"Maybe. I hope not. Someday, when she gives me some indication of how she feels, I'm going to find out."

Fabienne's fingers played with the pearl-beaded bag in her lap and she wished that she could paint a permanent smile on her face with a lipstick. It was all a little too much for her to sit beside Bill to-night and talk about Ellen, to hear him say that one day he was going to ask her to marry him. That's what it all amounted to.

"Well, good luck when you do!" she said, managing a bright, impersonal smile.

Her mother broke off her conversation with the father of the bride. "What are you two talking about?" she asked.

"The price of rubber in Puerto Rico," her daughter said, without any rudeness in her tone.

"Really? What a waste of time. I always find surgeons the most interesting conversationalists. You must come to dinner with us next week, Dr. Mallory. Fabienne, remind me to find what evening we are not engaged and get the doctor's telephone number."

"Bill isn't social, mother. He's too hard working to fit his social program to ours. Aren't you, Bill?"

Bill's face had gone suddenly cool. He was hurt by the bright acidity in her voice, and puzzled by it. He said nothing.

"Of course he's hard working," said Gertrude. All bright, interesting young men are hard working, but I mean to see more of him."

Their arrival at the hotel at Fifth avenue in the sixties put an end to the difficult conversation.

Fabienne wondered how Nicky and Ellen had got on. They'd probably arrived a quarter of an hour before.

Nicky, a block away, was saying, "I'll let you out and then park the car."

"I'll come with you," Ellen answered. "If you'd like to have me."

"Like to? Say, I wish we didn't have to go to this dinner. You're the first interesting girl I've talked to since I can remember."

"Fabienne is interesting," Ellen said quickly. "She's not only the prettiest girl I've ever seen, but she is a most interesting, talented, charming and sincere person."

"You bet!" he agreed enthusiastically. "Guess young Mallory appreciates her—her attractions, eh?"

"Bill? Yes, he does. He likes her very much, but she—she—I mean they're just good friends." Nicky mustn't get the idea that Fabienne and Bill were romantic about each other, however Bill felt. It wouldn't be fair to Nicky to let him believe anything like that.

Anyway, she wasn't sure how Fabienne felt about any man. She'd said she was fond of Nicky, and in spite of her one protestation that she would not marry Nicky, Ellen couldn't see how she could resist him.

Also, it was odd that Fabienne said Nicky wasn't interested in anything but flying, polo and hunting. Nicky'd been talking to her enthusiastically about the Bartlett tobacco business. He'd answered all her questions with eagerness.

They parked the car and walked back to the hotel.

"I might stay around for a few days," he said as they went into the brightly lighted lobby. "Any chance of seeing you again?"

There it was again—that swift brush of pink that made her dark eyes sparkle. "I—I don't know."

"I like to talk to you. What are you doing tomorrow night?"

Still she didn't say anything. She couldn't very well have a date with Fabienne's beau.

"You have some mighty interesting ideas about marketing. You could help me if you wanted to. How about it?"

If she could help him—that was different. She said, "In that case, I'd be delighted."

"I'll pick you up for dinner about eight. I'm sure glad you came to this shindig."

They passed the florist's booth. "Wait a minute. You ought to have some flowers," Nicky told her.

She caught his arm and shook her head. "No, please," she said.

"Why not?"

She could only smile and continue to shake her head. What would Fabienne think if she came in with Nicky and wore flowers only Nicky could have bought?

"Some other time," she told him.

"All right," he said, giving in. "You ought to have a special kind of flower. White violets, or purple-black pansies. Something demure like yourself."

Bill and Fabienne looked up when Ellen and Nicky came in.

In a low voice, Fabienne said, "I never knew Ellen was so pretty before."

"Didn't you?" Bill said. "I've seen Ellen's face when it looked like an angel's."

She looked full at him then, thinking of how his face looked to her. "I know," she said, complete renunciation in her tone.

Gertrude said, "There you are, children. We thought we'd go on to a night club after dinner. Weddings let one down so. What do you think?"

Two sets of aunts and uncles beamed and said they thought it a fine idea. Neither Fabienne nor Ellen nor Nicky and Bill said anything. Their silence was heavy.

STARS SAY—
For Monday, December 18 MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a rather conflicting one, with many signs of benefit but some adverse. It would be wise to restrain the impulses and reckless or doubtful indulgences. Keep on good terms with employers, superiors and others who might prove treacherous or vindictive.

Those whose birthday it is may have a generally happy and fortunate year if they would restrain quarrelsome, impulsive and rash behavior, especially in holding the friendliness of superiors, employers or authorities. Social, domestic and romantic activities are fortunately expected and very lively.

A child born on this day may be impulsive, wayward and rash but not lacking in finer qualities, which may bring it distinction in creative art.

JAPANESE FOLK

GIVE FUNDS FOR FIGHTING FORCE

PEKING, China. — Private Japanese donations to the army and navy since the outbreak of hostilities in China in July, 1937, have reached the staggering figure of more than 100,000,000 yen, it was revealed by official spokesmen. This sum, approximately $30,000,000 U. S. currency, was divided, 70,000,000 yen to the army and 30,000,000 to the navy.

Under the Japanese system it is possible for individual subjects to give money to the fighting arms for specific purposes. In the case of navy gifts, 21,280,020 yen was earmarked for the national defense fund; 8,943,926 yen for the service's relief fund, and the balance for improvement of military science and technique.

Army Donations
Donations to the army comprised 28,989,586 yen for national defense fund; 25,000,000 yen for service; and 3,306,892 yen for improvement of military science.

Less wealthy but equally patriotic Japanese subjects prepared and presented to the army fighting China no less than 14 million comfort kits in addition to some 25 million other parcels to lighten the burden of the troops in action. Followers of the Japanese navy saw that the Nipponese gods were taken care of with 1,181,171 comfort kits, according to official statistics just revealed.

The man at the next desk says he understands Europe too, has been enjoying a warm autumn. In fact, says he, over there it's been downright bomb.

ALLIES CAPTURE MUCH GASOLINE SENT TO NAZIS

LONDON, Dec. 18 — Representing a silent victory of the air, the British contraband control and the French navy have already seized more than 100,000 tons of gasoline destined for the German air force.

The 24,000 000 gallons of gasoline involved in the seizure is a definite blow to German air power as will be seen in the following.

A twin-engined bomber in the 250-300 m.p.h. class has two engines each developing about 1,000 h. p.

An aero motor consumes at least half a pint of gasoline for every horsepower during each hour of flight. With the engine throttled back to about two-thirds power, a twin engined bomber uses 80 gallons of gas an hour.

Heavy Gas Consumption
During an hour's flight, a formation of fifty bombers would thus consume over 4,000 gallons of gasoline.

It would take a bomber heavily loaded with gas and high explosives up to six hours to reach England.

Thus a raid in which 50 bombers took part would require not less than 100,000 gallons.

Today's Menu

Pork Roast Baked Potatoes

Cranberry-Grape Salad

Buttered Carrots

Pumpkin Pie with Dates Coffee

PORK ROAST—Select a piece of pork suitable to your needs and pocketbook—a tenderloin loin roast, the most expensive; a rib roast without the tenderloin, a shoulder roast, a fresh shoulder or a Boston-style butt. Wipe with damp cloth, put in roaster, sprinkle with crumbled dried sage, chopped onion, salt and pepper. Allow at least 30 minutes to the pound in roasting, and bake at about 300 to 325° F. When it is about half done, turn over and sprinkle the under side with salt and pepper. When done, remove to hot platter, pour off most of the fat, add one tablespoon flour and one cup either milk or water to roaster, mix well and cook until thick, seasoning with pepper and salt to suit your individual taste. Strain to eliminate the pieces of onion and sage.

Cranberry-Grape Salad — Ingredients: one package lemon-flavored gelatin, one and one-half cups warm grape juice, one cup thick cranberry sauce, one-half cup celery, cut fine; one-half cup tart apples, finely cut but not peeled. Dissolve gelatin in warm grape juice, combine with sweetened cranberry sauce, celery and apples. Pour into mold and chill until firm. May be served on lettuce with mayonnaise or as relish.

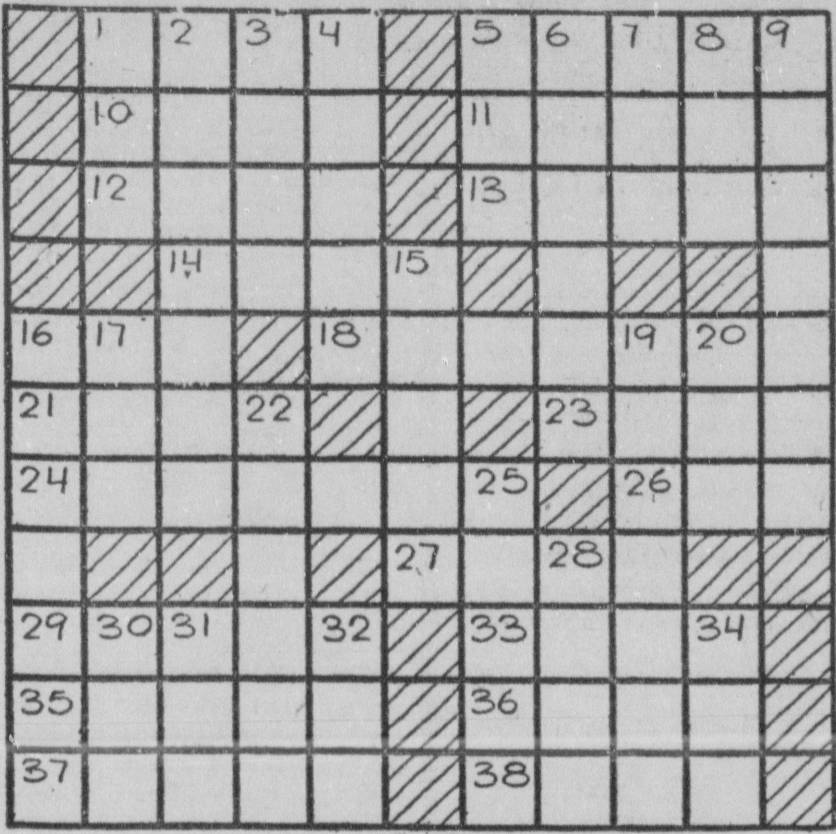

Pumpkin Pie with Dates — Ingredients: one-half cup light brown sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon ginger, one and one-half cups cooked pumpkin, two eggs, one and one-half cups milk, one-half package (three-fourths cup) sliced dates, unbaked pie shell. Add sugar, salt and spices to pumpkin. Beat eggs slightly, add milk, stir into pumpkin mixture; add dates. Pour filling into prepared shell, bake 10 minutes in hot oven (450° F.), then reduce heat to 350° F. and bake about 30 minutes more, or until none of filling clings to silver knife blade inserted in center of pie. Cool at room temperature. Serves six or eight.

CINCINNATI — With the avowed object of making each of the 21,000,000 Catholics of the United States "a fellow traveler in good citizenship," the Fraternity of Christian Doctrine has launched a nation-wide campaign to be known as "The Crusade for God in Government."

In line with the program, the fifth National Catechetical Congress of the Fraternity stressed the civic duties and privileges of the American Catholic.

THRONGS CROWD SHOPPING DISTRICT SEEKING CHRISTMAS MERCHANDISE

SATURDAY NIGHT FINDS BUSINESS HOUSES FILLED

Merchants Declare Holiday Business Excellent With Week Remaining

SEVERAL THEFTS LISTED

Single Automobile Accident Happens In District During Week End

Circleville merchants were unanimous Monday in their declaration that Saturday's crowd of shoppers was the largest since the Pumpkin Show. E. W. Stebleton, president of the Retail Merchants' Association, declared that a check of merchants brought reports of "exceptionally good business." Weary clerks agreed that it had been an outstanding day.

The crowds started moving into the city early Saturday afternoon. By night the downtown district was jammed.

Ideal weather conditions helped build the exceptional crowd. The temperature hit a high of 59 degrees. Many rural folk decided to complete their Christmas shopping Saturday rather than put it off until next Saturday and run the chance of having bad weather, and shopping in even greater crowds.

Circleville stores will remain open every night this week to accommodate shoppers. The closing time established by the stores is 9 o'clock, Mr. Stebleton said.

Time Limit Lifted
The time limit on parking in the downtown district has been removed by city officials for the week.

Police asked the cooperation of motorists to park no longer than necessary and not to double park.

Despite the unusual crowds Saturday only one minor traffic accident was reported by police. Autos driven by Henry Markley, Circleville Route 5, and Oscar Boyssel, Williamsport Route 1, were involved in a collision at West Main Street and Western Avenue at 10:45 p. m. Saturday.

Police said Mr. Markley was driving westward and Boyssel was turning on West Main Street from Western Avenue. The left front fender and hub were damaged on the Markley car. The left front fender and tire were damaged on the Boyssel car. No one was hurt.

A gray muskrat coat valued at $150 was stolen Saturday from the Crist Department Store, Main and Court Streets. The garment was insured.

Christmas presents purchased by the family of Harry Waits, Ashville Route 1, were stolen from the car parked on Pinckney Street, police were told. The articles included four housedresses, a blue shirt, five pairs of men's hose, five yards of dress material, a covered dish and other articles. Value of the articles was listed at $7.

The Mykrantz Drug Store reported to police that a compact ensemble valued at $3.95 was stolen Saturday.

HINTON FUNERAL SERVICE HELD IN SYRACUSE, N. Y.

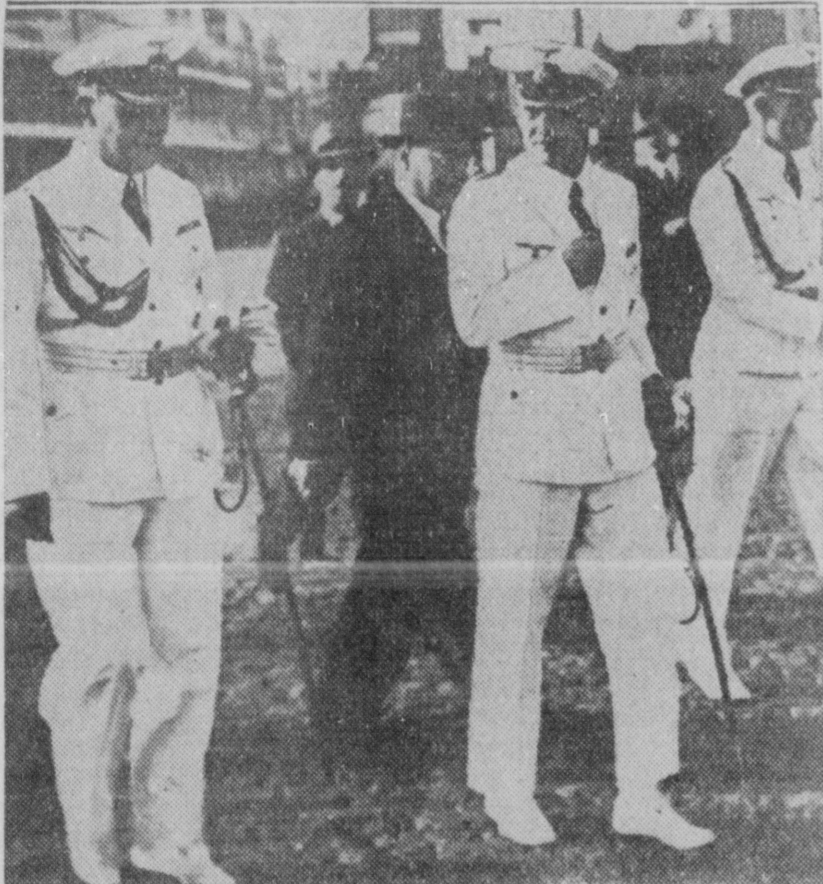

Funeral services were held Saturday in Syracuse, N. Y., for Lawrence Hinton, 30, of that city, who was killed instantly Wednesday when his automobile was struck by that of a drunken driver at a Syracuse street corner. Mr. Hinton's sister, Miss Leora, is in a Syracuse hospital suffering from a skull fracture, concussion and cuts.

Mr. Hinton, a native of Clarksburg, had gone to Syracuse about 12 years ago. Less than four months ago his mother, Mrs. Margaret Hinton and his sister removed to Syracuse to make a home for him and his 11-year-old son, Lawrence, Jr.

The body will be returned to Brown's Chapel cemetery for burial when it will be placed beside that of his father, Fred Hinton, who died 21 years ago.

Lawrence Hinton was a nephew

Spee's Skipper in Montevideo

CAPTAIN Hans Langsdorff, commander of the scuttled Admiral Graf Spee, is shown (extreme left) with an aide and a Uruguayan official as he came ashore from his damaged ship at Montevideo. The commander is reported to have purchased a large quantity of material to effect emergency repairs on the Graf Spee.

that more steam and speed could be obtained if the fires were stoked every four minutes. Other naval experts disagreed. They said no human being could stand being in the boiler room to stoke the fires every four minutes.

"So Captain White selected me and another midshipman as his guinea pigs," Governor Stark reminisced regarding the incident. "We were in the tropics, and it was 130 degrees in the boiler room. But we went down, stripped to the waist, and stoked the fires every four minutes. Between times we stood under the air vent."

"I lost 20 pounds, but we proved that men could stand up under the heat, and also we proved that you could get up more steam by stoking the fires that frequently."

Captain White, now retired, thinks Stark is the greatest governor in the United States, while

CAPITAL CHAFF

The fact that he once was secretary of the New Hampshire Farm Bureau is a help to Senator H. Styles Bridges in his farm belt campaigning for convention delegates. Bridges knows the farmer's lingo and goes over big with farm audiences. So far, Alabama and Tennessee have received a total of $268,463 in taxes from the TVA. General Counsel William Dempsey and his ace assistant William Koplovitz, Castor-and-Pollux legal team of the Federal Communications Commission, are hankering up a record for other government lawyers to shoot at. They haven't lost a single court case since their appointment. The Michigan branch of the National Youth Administration has completed a unique project at Lake Linden. It is a large log cabin called "Dad's Home" that serves as a recreation center for old lumberjacks and miners.

GOP FARM PLANK

Republican leaders know just how Richard III felt when he cried, "A horse! A horse! My kingdom for a horse!"

They feel exactly the same way about a 1940 farm plank. It's become their biggest campaign headache. For months they've been trying to figure out a safe answer and still they aren't anywhere near it. The problem has them on the merry-go-round.

On one hand is the fact that the Middlewest is the big hope of the Republican Party next year. Here the GOP made its heaviest gains in 1938 when local issues played a potent role. To carry it next year, as the Republicans must do to win the presidency, they must convince the rural voters that they can do better for them than the New Deal. And that's just where the rub comes.

For on the other hand the New Deal, through the various AAA benefit payments, is dishing out big dough to the growers. Between 80 and 90 percent of all grain belt farmers participate in this program. So if the Republicans condemn it too strongly, they may scare away votes. But if they don't condemn it, they tacitly admit the AAA is pretty good.

How worried are the Republicans over this situation is shown by the fact, known only to insiders, that they now have four separate groups hard at work trying to concoct a plank.

FATHER OF FAMED BAND LEADER DIES IN DENVER

DENVER, Dec. 18 — Wilberforce J. Whiteman, father of Paul Whiteman, famous orchestra leader, was dead today, the victim of a lingering illness. He was 82.

Paul Whiteman was not present when his father died but a sister, Mrs. Fern Whiteman Smith, of St. Louis, was at her father's bedside. Paul had made several cross-country plane flights to visit his ailing father, the last one being December 9. The elder Whiteman had been director of music in the Denver public schools for 34 years and was an important factor in his son's upward climb in the world of music.
